Dear Mr. Hobbs,

After sending the email to you yesterday, I spoke with a couple of members of our group and we wanted to make an additional comment regarding the 24 number.

Maybe the "totally electronic bingo" is the wave of the future; maybe it is inevitably the way things are going and there will be no stopping it. There are some advantages to running it that we see as a charity, i.e., fewer volunteers needed if it is the only type of bingo being offered in a location; but we are just afraid that if it is not properly transitioned into place, that the charities currently running bingos will go down during the whole process. So, with this in mind and our considerations formerly mentioned, it is the transition that makes us nervous.

Thank you again,
