...having a means of verifying the quantity of votes cast is important so there is no "stuffing the ballot box" or other electronic or paper-based means of distorting election results.

Additionally, I support our state electoral votes being apportioned by Congressional District so the large urban areas (high density population) do not garner MORE influence on a federal election than any rural area (less density population) more people over a broader area, to make each person's vote as important as the next.
