Subject: Comments - working draft election rules

Years ago when I was precinct committee woman, captain and helped at the polls, it was very important that the voter rolls were "clean". We worked very hard to be sure all deceased and relocated voters were purged. Don't know when it happened, but that seems to be unimportant today. Surely, that is #1 requirement.

#2 I would think, would be that every voter be eligible to vote. No one believes that we shouldn't prove who we are when we step up to the ballot box. Unfortunately, some have reasons why they fight this common sense idea.

Every step should be taken to assure that the voting machines are functioning correctly and the people counting the votes are honest.

After these things are assured, if the legislature feels unaffiliated should be allowed to vote in the primaries, so be it, but please let's try very hard not to have accusations of corruption after every single local, state and federal election!
