Regarding the renewal test:

Let's say I go online to renew my notary commission. When I do so, a pop-up box tells me that the rules have changed since my last renewal and I have the OPTION to take a FREE online course and test regarding the NEW rules. Alternatively, I should have the option to then read the new rules and check a box acknowledging them. If there are extensive changes, I may want to take the test. If it is just a minor change, or something that does not even apply to me, then I would read and acknowledge without taking a test.

If there have not been any changes since my last renewal, I should not have to take any test.
