Good morning,

I am writing in support of audio visual notarizations.

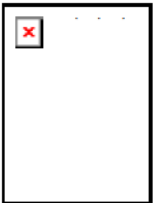

By allowing audio visual notarization to become common practice and permanently approved in Colorado we will continue to be seen as a progressive state with practical rules and regulations. This is a consumer friendly way to get documents notarized, which will ease the stress and difficulty. With the trends of more and more technology in our lives this will keep Colorado moving forward and seen a leader in consumer friendly policy.

With the current pandemic this is a much safer way! Consumers often tell me "how is this not all digital?" "why do we have to come in person?" "is there really not a better way?"

The approval of notarizations using audio visual technology is a no brainer to keep the public safe and notaries safe. While the temporary allowance of this has been great and well received by consumers what happens next time? Do we need to rewrite the rules and regs every time there is a health crisis and wait for the emergency order? When companies who perform notarial acts don't have any base or procedures set up already it is detrimental to the customer.

Thank you,
Tucker
